

Kayci's Story

Something big had happened. A bomb had exploded and killed over one hundred people. Then Hitler dropped another. The truth is that the air raid siren was broken, so no-one knew when the bombers were coming and couldn't get into the shelters in time.

One evening, Tom saw a plane in the distance. He knew it was a German plane, so he ran to the air raid siren to try and get it to work. When he got there he saw to his horror that there was an unexploded bomb sticking out of the ground. He knew the slightest movement might set it off. He was standing still and silent when suddenly the broken air raid siren started up, shaking the ground. Tom looked in fear at the bomb.

The bomb killed many people and destroyed many homes. Those who survived started thinking of revenge.

And so, to revenge.

The plan was to go to the war and kill Germans. He would do this by stealing a German plane. He would have to persuade the Germans that he was on their side and they should let him fly the plane.

Well what happened next ?

Some time passed and a German plane was stolen. They looked for it everywhere. They only found it when they saw it flying overhead. The Germans felt safe because it was a German plane. But then they weren't safe. The bombs fell and they were dead.
